If a big bass line is tickling your loins, a pounding beat is shaking your hips, a whirlwind of words is making your ears ring and you can't stop your right or left hand from waving in the air while making a horn sign, chances are you are dancing to the sounds of Boohgaloo Zoo. Two fellas from the Lowlands who created a heavy heavy monster sound: a touch of (nu-)disco and house, stomping hip-hop beats, smooth vocals and blistering rhymes and a whoooooole lotta funk spelled with a rather large "P". Think Arthur Russell, think Chromeo, think Amp Fiddler, think, yes, George Clinton.

K'bonus and U-Gene collaborate with a host of musicians like Cleveland rapper and Gilles Peterson & Co.'s favourite Replife, who shows his skills on "Found It", "Watch It", (single) "No Joke" and "Tonight", the Garc a brothers Martin and Josue aka two thirds of Spanish funk ensemble Speak Low's brass section ("No Joke", "Dead Wood") and Belgian turntablist Grazzhoppa ("No Joke"), who will also be part of the outfit when the Boohgaloo Zoo is taken to the stage.

Boohgaloo Zoo are K'bonus and U-Gene, two veterans of the Belgian and Dutch music scenes respectively. After meeting at the 10 Days Off festival in Ghent the duo started sending each other beats and tracks and soon enough a full album was in the making. K'bonus' beats and samples and U-Gene's vocals and keys are a match made in P-funk heaven, as you can hear on this, their debut album following the 12Inch of "No Joke" (which featured remixes of Juju & Jordash and Seiji).

...even more info on the band members, after the bump

K'bonus // K'bonus, or Bruno Tuyens as his mama calls him, comes from Antwerp, where he has been strutting his stuff on the many stages scattered all over the diamond city for ages. As a drummer in the band Dedos, with which he released a couple of 12Inche's on the Eighttrack label, as a DJ playing each and every funk-boogie-breaks-soul-techno-hip-hop-house party ever held in Belgium and some more in Europe and the USA, and as a producer having released an album and several singles on Wha?Roots, Pulver, Eighttrack and his own N.I.C.E. imprint. This man's got funk flowing through his veins.

U-Gene // If a band's from The Netherlands and plays music that's remotely funky, don't be surprised to find U-Gene among their ranks. The man has played with everyone from Kraak & Smaak, Liquid Spirits, Seven Eleven, Eboman and Urban Dance Squad to Rednose Distrikt, Kid Sublime and Aardvarck, either as a band member or as a guest vocalist/keyboard player. By the end of the nineties he enjoyed quite a status in his home country as one half of U-Gene & O-Jay.
